The story begins as Anne leaves Green Gables to take up a teaching position at the Avonlea school. She is excited to start her new job and eager to make a difference in the lives of her students. However, she soon discovers that teaching is not as easy as it seems, and she must learn to adapt to the challenges of her new role.

In addition to her teaching duties, Anne also becomes involved in the social life of Avonlea. She meets new friends and admirers, including Gilbert

Blythe, a former classmate who has always had a crush on her. Anne also finds herself drawn to Roy Gardner, a handsome and charming farmer. As she navigates the complexities of teenage relationships, Anne must learn to balance her heart and her head.

Throughout the novel, Anne faces a variety of challenges, both personal and professional. She must deal with the death of her beloved grandmother, Marilla Cuthbert, and she must also confront her own feelings of inadequacy as a teacher. However, Anne's indomitable spirit and her unwavering optimism help her to overcome these obstacles and find happiness in her new life.
