The American Psychological Association (APA) style is a widely used citation and referencing system in the social sciences. It is important to use the most up-to-date version of the APA style to ensure that your work is accurate and consistent.

The latest version of the APA style is the 7th edition, which was published in 2020. The 7th edition includes a number of changes from the previous edition, including:

- New guidelines for citing electronic sources
- Changes to the format of references
- New rules for using headings and subheadings
- Updates to the list of acceptable abbreviations

It is important to note that the APA style is constantly evolving. The APA publishes regular updates to the style manual, so it is important to check the APA website for the most up-to-date information.
